

When I visit a client at their office, what should I do when I first arrive?

When visiting a client, introduce yourself to the receptionist. State who you are there to see and the time of your appointment. Present your business card to avoid confusion, name repetition or mispronunciation. Make sure you are not sitting or browsing through a magazine when your host greets you in the lobby. Be standing, right hand free to shake hands.